

Fire work poem

Loud, colourful fireworks zooming into the moonlit sky as fast as lightening.
Enormous, noisy crowd shouting over the amazing fire works.
Giant, steaming fire burning the stiff model of Guy Forks as quickly as a jumbo jet.
Whoosh, bang rockets racing up into the dark sky.
Twirling, whirling sparklers making children happy.
Spinning, lovely Catherine wheel twirling as quickly as a running athlete.

By Phoebe Lees